Panel 1- Security/Intelligence – Repurposing Security Institutions

After the fall of the Soviet Union the domestic and international institutions of security repurposed themselves for new tasks, eventually (and uncomfortably) refitting themselves for the War on Terror. With Russia's invasion of Ukraine and the heating up of a competition with China, they must now repurpose themselves again for security competition in the New Cold War.

Facilitator: Dr. Robert Farley, Senior Lecturer - Patterson School

Dr. Mark Duckenfield, Dwight D. Eisenhower Chair of National Security, U.S. Army War College

Ms. Gail Helt, Security and Intelligence Studies Program Coordinator, King University

10:45 AM Panel 2- Diplomacy – Diplomatic Approaches for the New Cold War

We have at our disposal many multilateral institutions for tackling the myriad transnational problems we face. However, as crises like the current war in Ukraine illustrate, we continue to struggle to manage conflicts among major and regional powers. Has the world entered a new cold war era? What's lacking in terms of the diplomatic tools and approaches that have been and are being employed?

Facilitator: Amb. Carey Cavanaugh, Professor - Patterson School

Dr. Denis Makarov, Former Associate Professor of Political Science at Moscow State Pedagogical University

Ms. Mara Rudman, Executive Vice President, Policy – Center for American Progress

Dr. Chuck Ziegler, Professor of Political Science and University Scholar, University of Louisville; and Director, Grawemeyer Award for Ideas Improving World Order

12:00 PM Luncheon Buffet – Thoroughbred 2

1:00 PM Open

2:00 pm PANEL 3 – International Commerce – Economic Statecraft in the New Era

Trade, aid, investment, energy, and sanctions were used extensively throughout the first Cold War and will be primary instruments moving forward. This panel will examine the future of these initiatives and their effectiveness.

Facilitator: Dr. Yujia He, Assistant Professor - Patterson School

Mr. Richard Langstaff, Partner, Kaican LLP

Ms. Randi Levinas, Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer, US-Russia Business Council

Dr. Seth Schindler, Senior Lecturer, Urban Development & Transformation at the University of Manchester (Zoom)

3:30 PM Break – Thoroughbred Foyer

3:45 PM PANEL 4 – Development – Developing Countries and the New Cold War

The first Cold War had inestimable costs for the developing world in lives and lost economic opportunities. As we consider a new Cold War, the struggle for influence is again increasing. What are the implications this renewed influence race? How can policy makers in developing countries avoid the costs of the first?

Facilitator: Dr. Gregg Hall, Associate Professor - Patterson School

Mr. Dave Harden, CEO, Q2 Impact

Dr. Joseph Sany, Vice President, Africa Center, United States Institute for Peace
